FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

The unfortunate emergence of a significant health scare from China dented the equity rally in January. Fears over the Coronavirus outbreak largely led to global equity markets underperforming. Despite the best efforts of the WHO to restore some calm, panic indicators were elevated, with forecasts of a potentially large, but temporary effect on China growth. The other big news saw the UK quietly step into the unknown, as it begins once again to tread its own path and embark on a twelve month transition period. Fortunately, on balance, the flow of data post the general election suggests that the outcome has delivered a boost to UK confidence.

Government Bonds and Gold led asset returns, indicating a period of risk aversion. Sentiment may be warming towards UK assets, but a tough start to the year for Resources led to a month of underperformance. China-exposed stocks were also hit hard, while Utilities and Housebuilders found favour. At the size level, small-caps were the winners. In respect of factor returns, Value struggled relative to Growth.

The L&G UK Special Situations fund delivered a negative return of -2.9%, which reflected small outperformance. Stock selection had a positive impact, led by gains in Tech and Consumer Goods. This was offset slightly by weakness in Energy. On allocation, the underweight in Utilities was unhelpful. At the company level, Blue Prism, Taylor Wimpey and Draper Esprit were the biggest positive contributors. The detractors were led by oil-exposed names and cruise liner business Carnival.

He read Philosophy, Politics and Economics at Pembroke College, Oxford and is a member of the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales.

KEY RISKS

- The value of an investment and any income taken from it is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up; you may not get back the amount you originally invested.
- The return from this fund is dependent on relatively few individual investments. This means that a fall in the value of an individual investment can have a major impact on the overall performance of the fund.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Exchange rate fluctuations will impact the value of your investment. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce this impact but may not entirely eliminate it.
