Performance assumes all fund charges have been taken and that all income generated by the investments, after deduction of tax, remains in the fund. This fund has adopted a single swinging price, this means that on any given day the single dealing price will be set at either bid, offer or somewhere in between, based on whether there was a net inflow or outflow into or out of the Fund. The past performance depicted in this factsheet is based on that dealing price and therefore may appear more volatile than it would otherwise be if we were to show the notional bid or offer performance, this is as a result of the daily swing.

Past performance is not a guide to future returns. The value of your investment and any income taken from it is not guaranteed and may go up and down.

FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Risky assets continued to rally in February, although not quite as much as they did during January. Throughout the month, the US/China trade talks resulted in a further delay to new tariffs; a bumper Chinese credit number promised an improvement in economic activity; and a no-deal Brexit appeared to become less likely.

Spreads tightened in February for second month in a row, though they are still above the levels they were at during the start of November last year. Fund performance more or less kept up with the rally due to a positive contribution from stock selection in the industrials goods and services and utilities sectors. Performance also benefited from exposure to a selected southern European government bond. On the negative side, our stock selection in the autos sector and overall underweight in cyclicals and overweight in defensive sectors such as utilities were negative for performance amid the market rally.

The dovish shift from Jerome Powell is clearly very important given the concerns we have about tightening liquidity conditions. Even though valuations have recovered significantly, they are still far from the very expensive levels we saw at the start of 2018. Therefore, tactically holding more credit risk makes sense to us. However, we retain our cautious longer-term outlook.

KEY RISKS

- This fund holds bonds that are traded through agents, brokers or investment banks matching buyers and sellers. This makes the bonds less easy to buy and sell than investments traded on an exchange. In exceptional circumstances the fund may not be able to sell bonds and may defer withdrawals, or suspend dealing. The Directors can only delay paying out if it is in the interests of all investors and with the permission of the fund depositary.
- The fund invests directly or indirectly in bonds which are issued by companies or governments. If these companies or governments experience financial difficulty, they may be unable to pay back some or all of the interest, original investment or other payments that they owe. If this happens, the value of the fund may fall.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from the currency of this share class. Exchange rate fluctuations will impact the value of your investment. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce this impact but may not entirely eliminate it.
- We may take some or all of the ongoing charges from the fund's capital rather than the fund's income. This increases the amount of income, but it reduces the growth potential and may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.
- Investment returns on bonds are sensitive to trends in interest rate movements. Such changes will affect the value of your investment.
