FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Diverging central bank policy actions and political turbulence, alongside capricious moves on trade and tariffs shaped market volatility in June. This led to a slump in risk appetite as the month progressed, despite evidence of global growth rebounding from the lows that we saw in Q1. In the UK, recent sentiment survey and data from services and manufacturing industries is supportive of an August rate hike and a modest rebound in GDP data for Q2.

Against this volatile backdrop, UK equities remain remarkably resilient, closing out a strong quarter for investors. This brought about a slight re-rating in valuation metrics on the back of higher share prices. Earnings growth expectations also saw some decent upgrades. Overall, the FTSE All Share closed the month broadly flat. At the size level, midcaps were slightly stronger than large cap names, helped by M&A and corporate earnings.

Turning to sectors, we saw positive contributions from telecoms, aerospace and defence, and food and utilities. Offsetting this was financials, general industrials, construction, mining and healthcare sectors. Meanwhile, domestic exposed companies outperformed.

The L&G UK Equity Income fund performed broadly in line with the index, recording a negative return of -0.3% during the month of June. In what was a quiet period for stock news, sector positioning was broadly neutral. Our holdings in financials slightly underperformed, though this was offset by better returns in consumer services.

KEY RISKS

- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains. The impact to the fund can be greater where derivatives are used in an extensive or complex way.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Any such investments will be impacted by exchange rate fluctuations and this may affect the value of your investment and any income from it. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce the impact of exchange rate fluctuations but may not entirely eliminate it.
- We may take some or all of the ongoing charges from the fund's capital rather than the fund's income. This increases the amount of income, but it reduces the growth potential and may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.
