FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Broadly, it was a strong month for equity markets, as the Growth-Policy trade-off continues to improve. The steady 'risk on' move was led by further progressive negotiations on global trade tariffs between the US and China, with wider optimism that worst case scenarios can be avoided. In UK politics, the polls indicate a further shift in favour of Boris Johnson, while Labour's economic policies pledges are potentially more dangerous for markets than previously anticipated. Elsewhere, Q3 reporting has been and gone, with results not as bad as feared in the context of a difficult macro environment.

Sterling's pre-election surge gathered pace as UK Domestic-exposed names outperformed Exporters and the key FTSE mega cap sectors. November saw an extension of the Value and Cyclical rally, though once again the picture was mixed at the stock level. It was a consecutive period of outperformance for Mid and Small-caps. By sector, Oil & Gas and Telecoms were most out of favour, with Industrials, Technology and Consumer Goods sectors performing well.

The fund recorded a consecutive month of strong outperformance. Stock selection and sector allocation were both positive. By sector, there was notable outperformance from our Consumer Goods and Healthcare holdings. The portfolio's zero exposure in Energy was helpful, whilst the positioning in Tech and Industrials added value. By stock, Aston Martin Lagonda, Boohoo, Abcam, FeverTree Drinks and RWS were the leading performers. On activity, we switched our holding of Sophos Group into Experian.

KEY RISKS

- The value of your investment and any income you take from it may fall as well as rise and is not guaranteed. You might get back less than you invest.
- The return from this fund is dependent on relatively few individual investments. This means that a fall in the value of an individual investment can have a major impact on the overall performance of the fund.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Exchange rate fluctuations will impact the value of your investment. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce this impact but may not entirely eliminate it.
