FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

It was a mixed month for equities, with tech stocks lifting US market performance, while in the UK and Europe volatility was much more evident as both regions delivered negative returns. UK equity market performance proved most disappointing on renewed concerns over a second wave of Coronavirus as new lockdown restrictions were set in parts of Northern England. Cyclical and value stocks were hit hardest in the month. By sector, Tech, Materials, Healthcare and Utilities outperformed. Telecoms, Financials, Consumer Services and Industrials were out of favour.

The fund reported a disappointing negative return of -5.3%, which underperformed its benchmark. Stock selection and sector allocation were both negative in the period. For stock selection, the biggest detractors were from our exposure within Consumer Goods, Industrials and Tech industries. Sector positioning was also unhelpful, predominantly due to our underweight in Healthcare and overweight to Consumer Services. The lack of exposure to mega-cap defensive names also detracted value.

At the company level, the biggest detractors were Imperial Brands, Melrose Industries, SSP Group, DS Smith, Carnival and Micro Focus International. Turning to positives, the notable contributors were Next, Direct Line Insurance and GoCo.

In terms of trading activity, we introduced a small position in De La Rue, the currency and authentication solutions business.

KEY RISKS

- The value of an investment and any income taken from it is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up; you may not get back the amount you originally invested.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains. The impact to the fund can be greater where derivatives are used in an extensive or complex way.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Exchange rate fluctuations will impact the value of your investment. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce this impact but may not entirely eliminate it.
- We may take some or all of the ongoing charges from the fund's capital rather than the fund's income. This increases the amount of income, but it reduces the growth potential and may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.
