FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities experienced a better month in July, rising 2%. However, year to date returns remain negative. China missed out on the recovery, falling 1.6%, as investors continued to worry about trade frictions. The falls were particularly severe for some of the Chinese internet names. Hong Kong also underperformed, as better performance among Hong Kong property companies was offset by falls in HK listed Chinese consumer stocks. Australia outperformed the broader region, rising 2.9%, as banks rallied on concerns easing around the banking royal commission.

South Korea fell, with the bulk of the decline from currency weakness. Taiwan had a strong month, rising 6.6%, as semiconductor names performed well and some of the Apple supply chain names that were sold off earlier this year further recovered. India also had a strong month, rising 7% as index heavyweight Reliance rerated and the Goods and Services Tax was cut for a number of products. ASEAN had a good month with Thailand and the Philippines up strongly, bouncing after steep sell-offs earlier this year.

The fund enjoyed another solid month, increasing its outperformance of the wider peer group return. At a country level, we saw positive contributions from both Australia and China, while our underweight in Korea (and stock selection) also added value. On the flipside, India stock selection disappointed (Coal India and Bharti Infratel), while our Macau names were a small negative.

KEY RISKS

- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Any such investments will be impacted by exchange rate fluctuations and this may affect the value of your investment and any income from it. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce the impact of exchange rate fluctuations but may not entirely eliminate it.
- We may take some or all of the ongoing charges from the fund's capital rather than the fund's income. This increases the amount of income, but it reduces the growth potential and may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.
