

Legal & General European Equity Income Fund

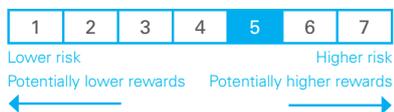

Unit Trust (UCITS compliant) C-Class GBP

FUND AIM

The objective of the fund is to generate income in excess of the FTSE Europe ex-UK Index over rolling 3 year periods.

RISK AND REWARD PROFILE

The synthetic risk and reward indicator (SRRI) is based on the historic volatility of the fund's value and it may change in the future.

The fund is in category 5 because it invests in company shares which are sensitive to variations in the stock market. The value of company shares can change substantially over short periods of time.

For more information, please refer to the Key Risks section on page 3.

WHO IS THIS FUND FOR?

- This fund is designed for investors looking for income and growth from an investment in European company shares (excluding UK companies).
- Although investors can take their money out at any time, this fund may not be appropriate for those who plan to withdraw their money within five years.
- This fund is not designed for investors who cannot afford more than a minimal loss of their investment.
- If you do not understand this document we recommend you seek additional information to help you decide if this fund is right for you.

FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

European equity markets performed well in July, despite the overhang of protectionism that still lingers over the global economy and its threat to global exporting sectors. Broadly, the current corporate earnings season has been strong, which has managed to offset some of the weaker recent activity readings across the Eurozone. Purchasing Managers' Index data was mixed, with the manufacturing sector appearing more resilient than services.

In respect of market movers, we saw a degree of sector rotation in the period. Healthcare and financials led the way as pharmaceuticals were helped by continuing US dollar strength and banks saw a strong rebound. Meanwhile, the oil and gas sector also performed well. Technology and consumer services were laggards, although all sectors saw positive returns.

The L&G European Equity Income fund performed broadly in line with the index return in the period. Sector allocation was a small negative, driven by our underweight in healthcare, despite good stock selection. Elsewhere, weakness from our technology weighting was largely offset by returns in consumer services and banks (positions in the Swedish names). From a country perspective, selection in France and the Netherlands was detrimental.

ANDREW KOCH

Andrew joined LGIM in August 2014 and is a Fund Manager in the Global Income team. He joined from the in-house pension scheme at BAE Systems, where he was head of the European equities team, co-chair of the Global best ideas fund, and a member of the asset allocation committee. Previously, he managed European equities for institutional and retail funds at Henderson Global Investors and HSBC Asset Management. He started his career at Phillips & Drew in 1992. He has an MA from New College, Oxford, in philosophy, politics and economics. Andrew is a CFA charterholder and an ASIP.

KEY RISKS

- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Any such investments will be impacted by exchange rate fluctuations and this may affect the value of your investment and any income from it. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce the impact of exchange rate fluctuations but may not entirely eliminate it.
- We may take some or all of the ongoing charges from the fund's capital rather than the fund's income. This increases the amount of income, but it reduces the growth potential and may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.
