FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

The European equity market delivered a positive return in June. The pullback in long-term government bond yields and decline in market-derived inflation expectations removed potential equity valuation headwinds. This resulted in a return to growth stocks outperforming value during the month. On inflation, the consequences of higher labour and input costs on corporate margins continues to be a key talking point as part of our engagement with companies. The vaccination program in the eurozone is continuing to ramp up with the vaccination rate now matching that of the UK. Germany, for example, have now given a first dose to over 50% of its population. While the spread of the Covid delta variant poses a potential concern for the full reopening of economies, the increasing number of cases has so far not led to significantly higher hospital admissions. This suggests that the vaccines work well against the variant, with levels of full vaccination steadily rising.

The L&G European Equity Income fund underperformed its benchmark in June. Stock selection was negative, driven by our names in Basic Materials and Telecoms. Sector allocation was broadly neutral. At the stock level, the top positive contributions came from Novo Nordisk, Merck KGaA and Getinge. Negative contributions came from Mediaset Espana, SES and AXA.

For activity, we entered a new position in Sanofi, a pharma company with strong divisions which has taken actions to improve value, which we believe are not yet fully priced in by the market.

CARBON EMISSIONS

Following the global Paris Agreement on climate change, companies in all sectors are expected to reduce their emissions to prepare and adapt for a low-carbon economy.

Carbon emissions intensity describes the relationship between the carbon emissions of a company and its salesⁱⁱ.

KEY RISKS

- The value of an investment and any income taken from it is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up; you may not get back the amount you originally invested.
- The return from this fund is dependent on relatively few individual investments. This means that a fall in the value of an individual investment can have a major impact on the overall performance of the fund.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Exchange rate fluctuations will impact the value of your investment. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce this impact but may not entirely eliminate it.
- We may take some or all of the ongoing charges from the fund's capital rather than the fund's income. This increases the amount of income, but it reduces the growth potential and may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.
