FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Investors may have been awaiting further guidance from the G20 summit, but they were clearly in the mood to accentuate any potential positive outcome. Having closed June with pre-G20 optimism, there was great hope of positive progress in bilateral discussions between Presidents Trump and Xi on US-China trade relations. Meanwhile, the growth-policy trade-off remains supportive of equities, mostly driven by dovish central bank messaging from the ECB and the Fed.

Dovish messages from central bankers are helping to mitigate gloomy economic readings. On the data front, there are concerns that the uptick in momentum from Q1 is unlikely to be sustained. More recent global activity appears to be characterised by weakness in manufacturing, but fairly robust signals from the consumer side amid robust labour market dynamics.

Turning to equity markets, most of the main regional indices and asset classes had positive one-month returns. Sector leadership rotated back towards Miners and Industrials, while Healthcare also performed well. Conversely, some of the perceived defensive sectors and bond proxies underperformed, alongside Retailers and Banks. At the size level, large-caps were firmly in favour at the expense of small-caps. Meanwhile, the Growth and Value polarisation gap remains at extremes.

For the UK Special Situations fund, we were disappointed with the underperformance against the benchmark in the period. Sector allocation and selection were both negative. The underweight in mega-cap Miners and Healthcare stocks detracted value, while we saw stock specific weakness from Carnival and Blue Prism. Conversely DS Smith, Melrose and Ferguson all outperformed.

KEY RISKS

- The value of an investment and any income taken from it is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up. You may not get back the amount you originally invested.
- The return from this fund is dependent on relatively few individual investments. This means that a fall in the value of an individual investment can have a major impact on the overall performance of the fund.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Exchange rate fluctuations will impact the value of your investment. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce this impact but may not entirely eliminate it.
