FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Following a strong first quarter for risk assets, equity markets extended their recent strength in April. Buoyed by better data indicators from the US and recent signs of stabilisation in the Chinese economy, growth stocks outperformed in the period. Arguably, the most encouraging developments in the past month is how sluggish economic activity readings now appear to be discounted and that earnings downgrades are receding.

During the month, China outperformed as it benefited from improving economic data and the strength of the domestic internet names. Hong Kong however underperformed, as a number of Chinese state owned enterprises retreated as investors perceived a lower likelihood of greater dividend payments. Korea lagged, as lacklustre exports and weak economic growth led to a sell-off in industrials. Taiwan performed well, driven by the tech sector, which was bolstered by better prospects for iPhone sales.

For the fund, the Asian Income Trust reported a gain of 1.6%, which broadly matched the benchmark return. We consider this a robust monthly performance in line of the strength of growth over value names, which was reflected in sector leadership from tech, consumer discretionary and communication services. On attribution, selection in China and India detracted most value. Yet this was offset by gains in Singapore (financials), Korea and Taiwan. In Australia, we saw some weakness from names like Scentre Group and Qantas. For allocation, our underweight in India and Korea was a small positive.

PAUL HILLSLEY

Paul joined LGIM in 2006 and is the lead fund manager for the Asian income portfolios. He has managed the Asian Income Trust since its inception. He began his investment career in 1991 at Phillips and Drew Fund Management, now called UBS Global Asset Management, and developed broad experience across UK, Europe, Japan and, predominantly, Asia ex Japan, over subsequent years. At LGIM Paul launched the Asian Income Trust in November 2008 and in 2013 formed the Global Income Team which, together with Andrew Koch, Stephen Message and Veeral Gandhi forms the core of the firm's equity income expertise. He read engineering, economics and management at Lincoln College, Oxford University, and is an associate of the Society of Investment Professionals.

KEY RISKS

- The value of an investment and any income taken from it is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up. You may not get back the amount you originally invested.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Exchange rate fluctuations will impact the value of your investment. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce this impact but may not entirely eliminate it.
- We may take some or all of the ongoing charges from the fund's capital rather than the fund's income. This increases the amount of income, but it reduces the growth potential and may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.
