FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

The aggressive sell-off for risk assets in March resulted in heavy falls for equity markets. We've seen global demand collapse and supply shock, which drove a 10-day halving of oil prices. Early investor concern on potential supply chain, earnings and multiple risk has since given way to a focus on balance sheet health and liquidity. Through the month, we saw an increasing number of corporates cutting dividends, reducing capex and suspending buybacks amid a growing cash preservation stance.

Turning to equity market performance, all sectors reported varying degrees of negative returns in the period as equities de-rated sharply. As we approach the Q1 earnings season we appear set for downgrades, given still high expectations from analysts, however we think these are widely anticipated by investors. In the UK, Healthcare, Utilities and Consumer Goods sectors were relative outperformers. Cyclical and rate-sensitive sectors were the laggards. By size, Mid and Small-caps underperformed Large-cap companies. At the factor level, Value and Growth lagged Quality and Momentum styles.

The L&G Growth Trust significantly underperformed its benchmark, as the fund delivered a negative return of -22.7%. Stock selection and sector positioning were both detrimental to performance in the period. This was mostly driven by the portfolio exposure to Consumer Discretionary and Industrials, where the portfolio has an overweight allocation. At the stock level, ASOS, Cineworld, Aston Martin, Weir Group and RHI Magnesita were the biggest detractors. There were positive contributions from Ocado Group, Helios Towers and Abcam. On trading, there was no new activity.

KEY RISKS

- The value of an investment and any income taken from it is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up; you may not get back the amount you originally invested.
- The return from this fund is dependent on relatively few individual investments. This means that a fall in the value of an individual investment can have a major impact on the overall performance of the fund.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Exchange rate fluctuations will impact the value of your investment. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce this impact but may not entirely eliminate it.
