FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Following a disappointing September, the FTSE All Share was back in positive territory this month, closing the period up 1.9%. Divorce talks between Prime Minister Theresa May and the Eurozone remain a slow grind, while there has been little change in economic data to affect the Bank of England decision on introducing a rate hike in November.

In the UK, mid-caps were once again the size winners and have now rallied to a near multi-decade PE high. Of the sectors, technology and energy outperformed. Conversely, utilities and pharmaceutical sectors underperformed, while both retail sectors were an additional drag and remain in a downgrade cycle. From a style perspective, cheap stocks were out of favour, with value measures under pressure, as those names with high forecast earnings growth enjoyed a positive month. In terms of geographic exposure, domestic-exposed companies reversed last month's trend, closing the period in negative territory. This was to the benefit of those exposed to North America, which has seen renewed bullish expectations on possible tax reform.

The L&G UK Equity Income Fund delivered a gain of 1.0% in the period, underperforming the benchmark and peer group median return. This largely stems from stock selection in consumer sectors, which was only partially offset by better returns in financials. In terms of sector allocation, our overweight positioning in healthcare and telecoms hurt relative performance.

KEY RISKS

- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The impact to the fund can be greater where derivatives are used in an extensive or complex way.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from Sterling (British Pounds). Any such investments will be impacted by exchange rate fluctuations and this may affect the value of your investment and any income from it. Currency hedging techniques may have been applied to reduce the impact of exchange rate fluctuations but may not entirely eliminate it.
- The fund could lose money if any institutions providing services such as safekeeping of assets or acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
