FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Most equity markets continued to move higher over the quarter, led by more cyclical sectors. Both 10-year and shorter-term US yields moved slightly higher, as markets focused on a series of hikes through 2018. Credit and high yield spreads started and finished the quarter at tight levels, while currency moves were largely subdued in the developed world.

The Dynamic Diversified Fund was up 2.6% over the quarter. The main contribution to performance came from stronger equity markets. In addition to contributions from core equity holdings, positions in US energy stocks and global insurers made good contributions. Currency hedging added slightly to returns as the pound gained, though our hedging of the euro and Swiss franc detracted somewhat. Corporate and sovereign bonds added to performance on narrowing investment grade spreads, good performance from the European peripheral exposure and higher US inflation expectations. Alternatives exposure also contributed positively, particularly property, listed real estate and listed infrastructure.

We moved to a tactically cautious stance on equities following strong equity markets gains and signs that sentiment is reaching particularly bullish levels. We retain a preference for the pound and Japanese yen over the euro and Swiss franc. We see robust global growth continuing, as well as further hikes from the US Federal Reserve through 2018, and are concerned about the potential impact of higher inflation in the US. We have therefore been tactically cautious on interest rate risk, expressed via UK gilt and US treasury hedges. We have also reduced exposure to US investment grade debt and further increased our holdings in US inflation-linked debt. We retained a preference for European peripheral debt exposure, initially via Italian and Portuguese bonds, before switching into Turkish hard currency bonds

*Exposure through shares in listed infrastructure and private equity companies and global Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs).

Exposure through investing in funds that aim to provide a similar return to selected commodity indices. The underlying funds invest in derivatives to provide the return of the specified indices.

KEY RISKS

- The value of an investment and any income taken from it is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up. You may get back less than the amount you originally invested.
- The return from your investment is not guaranteed and therefore you may receive a lower or higher return than you anticipated. There will be a variation in performance between funds with similar objectives due to the different assets selected.
- PMC's charges and associated transaction costs are subject to change, with notice for the former and without notice for the latter. Charges and transactions costs deducted from the policy reduce your potential for capital growth in the future.
- Tax rules and the treatment of income and capital gains could change in the future and may be applied retrospectively.
- Inflation reduces the purchasing power of money over time as the cost of purchasing goods and services increases, if the rate of inflation exceeds the rate of return on your portfolio, it will erode the value of your portfolio and its investments in real terms.
- In extreme market conditions it may be difficult to realise assets held for a fund and it may not be possible to redeem units at short notice. We may have to delay acting on your instructions to sell or the price at which you cancel the units may be lower than you anticipated.
- The value of a fund's assets may be affected by uncertainties such as international political developments, market sentiment, economic conditions, changes in government policies, restrictions on foreign investment and currency repatriation, currency fluctuations and other developments in the laws and regulations of countries in which investment may be made.
- PMC seeks to mitigate counterparty risk wherever possible on behalf of its policyholders through a variety of measures which include; each fund's non-cash assets being held with independent custodians, sweeping cash (where appropriate) overnight into the LGIM's range of Liquidity funds (above a de minimus level), using the delivery versus payment system when settling transactions and the use of central clearing for exchange traded derivatives and forward foreign exchange transactions. However, in the event of the failure of a counterparty, custodian or issuer there is a residual risk that a fund may suffer asset losses which are unrecoverable.
