FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Asian ex Japan equity markets enjoyed a strong start to the year. Markets were spurred by greater optimism around a US-China trade deal, while a change in stance from the Fed, whereby more patience will be adopted with regards to interest rates, helped fuel appetite for risk assets. There was additional news around more stimulus measures by China, providing a further uplift to confidence in the region. Oil was the best performing asset class in the period, while both value and growth equity styles saw good returns for investors.

Equity market gains were led by China, as an unwinding of trade concerns led to a bounce. Hong Kong performed in line with the region, as property related names and banks rallied. Korea outperformed, as large cap tech name Samsung benefited from improved sentiment on memory demand. Taiwan was a marked underperformer, as Apple's profit warning on weak December quarter iPhone sales led to weakness in the Apple supply chain. India was the major laggard in the region, due to uncertainty on the upcoming budget and general election.

Turning to fund performance, the L&G Asian Income Trust performed broadly in line with its benchmark in the period, delivering a net return of 3.5%. In terms of positioning, our underweight in China and Korea was a headwind, after both regions performed strongly – led by technology sectors. However, this was offset by good stock selection in India, Hong Kong and Thailand. Offsetting this slightly was small relative underperformance in Australia.

PAUL HILLSLEY

Paul joined LGIM in 2006 and is the lead fund manager for the Asian income portfolios. He has managed the Asian Income Trust since its inception. He began his investment career in 1991 at Phillips and Drew Fund Management, now called UBS Global Asset Management, and developed broad experience across UK, Europe, Japan and, predominantly, Asia ex Japan, over subsequent years. At LGIM Paul launched the Asian Income Trust in November 2008 and in 2013 formed the Global Income Team which, together with Andrew Koch, Stephen Message and Veeral Gandhi forms the core of the firm's equity income expertise. He read engineering, economics and management at Lincoln College, Oxford University, and is an associate of the Society of Investment Professionals.

KEY RISKS

- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Any such investments will be impacted by exchange rate fluctuations and this may affect the value of your investment and any income from it. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce the impact of exchange rate fluctuations but may not entirely eliminate it.
- We may take some or all of the ongoing charges from the fund's capital rather than the fund's income. This increases the amount of income, but it reduces the growth potential and may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.
