FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Global equity markets remained volatile during December, amid numerous failed attempts at a Santa rally. Equity market trends remain down with most major indices in Europe and the US closing the year below their 50 day moving average.

For the UK, the decline in business investment plans and sentiment readings are no great surprise considering ebbing growth and political uncertainty. As deadline day draws closer, it would appear that much hinges upon the Brexit outcome.

As markets tumbled, December brought a familiar pattern of successively lower peaks and troughs hitting equities. Gold climbed 5% as safe haven assets were in demand, while Mid-caps were the weakest size performers and the recent OPEC meeting did little to arrest the slump in oil prices.

Of the UK sectors, miners were in favour alongside technology stocks. General retailers were under pressure following a flurry of profit warnings in the retail sector across Pan-Europe. Astonishingly, there have been almost 30 retail profit warnings in 2018, which is the highest level since 2011. Elsewhere, telecoms and tobacco names also fared poorly.

Turning to the fund, the L&G UK Select Equity portfolio delivered disappointing performance during December, reporting a net return of -6.5%. This was predominantly driven by a sharp sell-off in the general retail industry, where we have an overweight position. Stock selection was also weak in the consumer goods sector. Sector allocation was broadly neutral.

KEY RISKS

- The return from this fund is dependent on relatively few individual investments. This means that a fall in the value of an individual investment can have a major impact on the overall performance of the fund.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Any such investments will be impacted by exchange rate fluctuations and this may affect the value of your investment and any income from it. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce the impact of exchange rate fluctuations but may not entirely eliminate it.
