FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

After a strong start to the year, there was a dramatic turn of fortunes during May in what proved a very difficult month for global equity markets. The FTSE All Share index broke its four month winning streak, as the unfolding economic conflict led to a return of recession fears as global tensions spread.

Elsewhere, oil prices slumped to a 3-month low as trade wars and high inventories in the U.S. continue to overshadow supply disruptions in Iran and Venezuela. Finally, a solid Q1 reporting season has resulted in an improvement in the earnings revision ratios across most markets.

For markets, there were few hiding places as the majority of sectors fell during the month. Cyclical industries were hit especially hard, though with some exceptions at the stock level. Defensives fared better, which extended to other safe haven assets. From a style view, value stocks underperformed, while low beta and quality stood out. UK domestic names and sterling were firmly out of favour. Yet, small caps outperformed large-caps.

The L&G UK Select Equity fund reported a negative performance in May, ending with a net return of -5.9%. This was primarily driven by stock selection in consumer cyclicals. Our exposure in industrials and healthcare also detracted value. Sector allocation was broadly flat.

KEY RISKS

- The value of an investment and any income taken from it is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up. You may not get back the amount you originally invested.
- The return from this fund is dependent on relatively few individual investments. This means that a fall in the value of an individual investment can have a major impact on the overall performance of the fund.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Exchange rate fluctuations will impact the value of your investment. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce this impact but may not entirely eliminate it.
