FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities gained 2.5% in May. China outperformed on the back of positive flows after the inclusion of A-shares in the MSCI benchmark indices. Australia also performed relatively well, led by healthcare and basic materials. Korea performed poorly as the prospects for a North Korea-US summit became more uncertain and investors reacted to a weak first quarter earnings season. India also had a poor month as investors became concerned about the impact of higher oil prices on the economy. Within ASEAN, Malaysia performed particularly poorly, as the historic defeat of UMNO in the general elections after 61 years of continuous rule, led to concerns about populist policies and lack of fiscal discipline. The rest of ASEAN was also weak. Indonesia was the exception, as the central bank conducted rate hikes to strengthen the currency.

On Asian Income, we saw 50bps relative outperformance, during a month that saw strength in both stock selection and asset allocation. We benefitted from very strong selection in Hong Kong, alongside positive returns in consumer services and industrials. Our overweight in Australia added value, while we also gained from our underweight exposure to Korea. At the stock level, SJM Holdings shares bounced sharply on the back of stronger than expected industry gross gaming revenues and broker upgrades. Other positive performers included Petrochina, which moved higher on the back of the higher oil price, and airline Qantas, after the group guided to a record result in FY '18 and a positive fleet update.

KEY RISKS

- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Any such investments will be impacted by exchange rate fluctuations and this may affect the value of your investment and any income from it. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce the impact of exchange rate fluctuations but may not entirely eliminate it.
- We may take some or all of the ongoing charges from the fund's capital rather than the fund's income. This increases the amount of income, but it reduces the growth potential and may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.
