FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

We've seen a strong start to the year for equity markets, as a message regarding the virtues of patience from the Federal Reserve provided a much-needed positive catalyst. Much of the damage done during November and December now appears repaired, though low liquidity would suggest investors are sceptical of future returns. Flows and sentiment may remain subdued, but markets have proved resilient in the face of mixed top-down data, Brexit headlines and corporate earnings newsflow.

Overall, equities have managed to shrug off some downbeat economic readings, helped by more encouraging underlying data. Cyclical shares have rallied strongly, which has been mirrored by the improvement in the oil price. Judging by currency moves, markets appear convinced that a 'no deal' Brexit remains unlikely, with sterling proving to be very resilient.

For UK equity markets, mid-caps have been the clear outperformer, though all size groups end January in positive territory. UK domestics, led by housebuilders and consumer discretionary sectors, fared strongest in the month. Resources and industrials were other leading sectors, while telecoms and healthcare ended the month in negative territory.

Turning to performance, the L&G Growth Trust enjoyed a strong month on an absolute and relative basis. The fund outperformed its benchmark by 5.8%, driven by very strong returns from a combination of its cyclical and mid-cap exposure. Sector allocation also made a positive contribution, led by our underweight in oils, telecoms and healthcare industries.

KEY RISKS

- The return from this fund is dependent on relatively few individual investments. This means that a fall in the value of an individual investment can have a major impact on the overall performance of the fund.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Any such investments will be impacted by exchange rate fluctuations and this may affect the value of your investment and any income from it. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce the impact of exchange rate fluctuations but may not entirely eliminate it.
