FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

European equity markets started the year on a positive note, driven by a supportive macro data as the Eurozone expansions appears broad-based and sustainable. The beginning of corporate earnings season has also been encouraging, as EPS forecast momentum is holding up well, underpinned by structural support and positive data flow.

Strong economic momentum has continued into 2018. Eurozone output and activity remains encouraging. The Q4 GDP release confirmed that last year the region saw its strongest growth since 2007. External trade performance and the region's unemployment rate was steady. The Eurozone flash PMI for January saw the index for the region hit another new 12-year high.

Turning to markets, it was a good month for mid-caps. Autos, banks and financial services out-performed. Both insurance sectors and general industrials also enjoyed a strong performance. Turning to losers, it was another difficult month for the utilities sector. The two most important factors in determining stock performance during January were high beta and high forecast earnings growth. By geography, Europe and Asia-exposed stocks were the best performing.

In what was a good month for a value style tilt in Europe, the fund enjoyed strong performance, delivering an absolute return of 2.2%. Stock selection was broadly positive, led by holdings in oil & gas and industrials. Though this was partially offset by weakness in consumer goods and healthcare. Sector allocation made a good contribution, driven by our underweight in utilities and overweight in financials.

ANDREW KOCH

Andrew joined LGIM in August 2014 and is a Fund Manager in the Global Income team. He has an MA from New College, Oxford, in philosophy, politics and economics. Andrew is a CFA charterholder and an ASIP.

KEY RISKS

- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from the base currency of the share class. Any such investments will be impacted by exchange rate fluctuations and this may affect the value of your investment and any income from it. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce the impact of exchange rate fluctuations but may not entirely eliminate it.
- The fund could lose money if any institutions providing services such as safekeeping of assets or acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
