FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

The UK equity market sold off slightly in September, with the FTSE All-Share index returning -1.0% during the month. This was driven by incrementally hawkish central bank communication and evidence of firm price pressures combined with inflation worries and concerns over broader macro momentum. We have started to see signs of persistent supply chain issues in corporate news flow across a range of sectors, impacting financial guidance with slightly softer sales growth and significantly higher logistics costs, driving downgrades. Whilst it's not all bad and there are alpha opportunities in the market, hurdle rates for Q3 earnings are relatively low and there is a growing likelihood that broader positive surprises from corporate earnings are in the rear-view mirror for now. Unsurprisingly, market leadership turned to become more value and cyclical as the month progressed. By sector, Energy and Healthcare outperformed, while Consumer Staples held up well. On the reverse side we saw Utilities, Tech, Telecoms and Resources sell-off sharply.

The L&G UK Equity Income Fund outperformed against its benchmark in September. Sector allocation was a small positive due to our underweight in Technology. Stock selection made a small negative contribution, driven by our names in Basic Materials. By stock, top positive contributions came from our holdings in BP, Entain and NatWest. The largest negative contributions to relative returns came from Taylor Wimpey, TP ICAP and being underweight Royal Dutch Shell.

There were no notable portfolio changes in the period.

KEY RISKS

- The value of an investment and any income taken from it is not guaranteed and can go down as well as up; you may not get back the amount you originally invested.
- The fund could lose money if any institution providing services such as acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations to the fund.
- Derivatives are highly sensitive to changes in the value of the asset on which they are based and can increase the size of losses and gains. The impact to the fund can be greater where derivatives are used in an extensive or complex way.
- The fund may have underlying investments that are valued in currencies that are different from sterling (British pounds). Exchange rate fluctuations will impact the value of your investment. Currency hedging techniques may be applied to reduce this impact but may not entirely eliminate it.
- We may take some or all of the ongoing charges from the fund's capital rather than the fund's income. This increases the amount of income, but it reduces the growth potential and may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.
